

Financial Counselling

Financial Counselling

UnitingCare Wesley Bowden offer a free financial counselling service, with qualified, independent and non-judgmental financial counsellors, who can guide you through your financial options and help you plan your way out of debt.

Financial Counselling can help you with things like:

Bills or fines you are struggling to pay

Being harassed by debt collectors

Gas, electricity or phone disconnection

Being evicted from your house

Car accidents with no insurance

Tax debts

We can help with budgeting and provide information about your rights as a consumer. Support and advocacy are also available, which may include assisting you to speak with creditors or speaking on your behalf. Together, we can explore practical strategies to regain control and connect you with additional resources that promote long-term stability and wellbeing.

Specialist areas of Financial Counselling

As part of our financial counselling services, we also have two specialist areas:

- Support for people impacted by gambling
- Support for small businesses
