The Murray Darling Association is recruiting for a new Chief Executive Officer

23rd September 2021

The peak body representing councils across the Murray Darling Basin is searching for a new chief executive to lead the organisation into the future.

The peak body represents the interests of the more than 170 councils across the Murray-Darling Basin and works with four States and the Commonwealth.

The Murray Darling Association is looking for someone to lead a high functioning team, as Chief Executive Officer.

The position requires a detailed knowledge of local government process and procedures, understanding of the role of State and Federal governments, as well as knowledge of Murray-Darling Basin.
