Industrial Relations Consultative Council - Call for nominations

6th October 2021

The LGA is seeking nominations for the Industrial Relations Consultative Council for a term commencing on 17 March 2022.

The Treasurer has written to the LGA requesting nominations for the Industrial Relations Consultative Council, for a person suitable to represent the interests of public sector employers, for a term commencing on 17 March 2022.

Detail

The Industrial Relations Consultative Council (IRCC) operates pursuant to the Fair Work Act 1994 (SA) and is responsible for high level consultancy and advisory functions for industrial relations and work health and safety matters in South Australia.

Appointments to the IRCC are for a period not exceeding three (3) years.

The Treasurer has written to the LGA requesting nominations for the IRCC due to the current members' term of appointment expiring on 16 March 2022. The Treasurer has advised that he has written to a range of employee and employer organisations inviting nominations for appointment to the IRCC and that given a number of organisations approached there is no guarantee that an LGA nominee will be recommended to the Governor for appointment.

The LGA does not currently have a representative on the IRCC.

The role would be suited to nominees with industrial relations/work health safety expertise at CEO/Senior Executive equivalent level and the ability to represent the views of the Local Government Association.
